1. In our recent production of the Draft Strategic Plan for Information Handling Systems in the Agency, we had to develop a large number of Gantt charts. These were complex graphics defining the implementation plans in each of the areas presented in the Plan. Because we were working with representatives of components throughout the Agency, we were also developing changes to these graphics right up to the time of publication. Preparation of these graphics was an exacting and time critical job, sometimes made frustrating by the changes.

2. [] performed this job with great skill, responsiveness, and tolerance. She is to be commended. Her special skill in operating the CAMEX machine was essential to producing these complex diagrams and to the productivity required to execute the job. Please express to her our appreciation for a difficult and unusual job that was especially well done.
